

Utah Voter Identification and right to cast provisional ballot if your identification is challenged

Set forth below are:

- Utah statute defining voter identification requirements – the various forms of identification that are acceptable; and
- Utah statute setting forth your right to cast a provisional ballot if your identification is challenged at the polls.

If you feel your right to vote is being denied or for other voting issues, you are advised to consult an attorney. St. George News is not giving legal advice in providing this information. The statutes set forth in this statement are current and in effect Oct. 4, 2012.

Utah Code Sections 20A-1-102(82) and 20A-3-104.
